To-Do List

- ✓ Along with this application, you should have received an estimate of your monthly pension benefit. Review that document and contact the Administrative Agency with any questions.
- ✓ Gather your documents. You'll need the following (copies only):
 - Proof of your date of birth and your spouse's or beneficiary's date of birth. A birth certificate, driver's license, or passport covers it.

 - If applying for a disability pension, a certificate or letter from the Social Security Administration showing your "date of entitlement" to disability benefits.
 - If married and selecting the Lifetime Benefit Only Option, your spouse's signed and notarized waiver of the Post-Retirement Spousal Benefit. You can find the waiver at the end of this packet.
- ✓ Complete the pension application. Pay close attention to the instructions. If you submit an application with a skipped step or a mistake, you'll need to complete the application again (and the starting date of your pension may be delayed).
- ✓ Send your completed application to the Administrative Agency, along with copies of any required documents. Don't file your pension application more than 180 days before your retirement date.

Please review your Summary Plan Description booklet and obtain a quotation of pension benefits before filling out the application form.

The application must be signed and postmarked no more than 180 days before the date you want your pension to start. The pension starting date you select may not be before the date the application is postmarked (pension dates may not be retroactive). By law, your first pension payment must be delayed until the eighth day after the postmark on your application, during which time you may withdraw the application and change your elections. Future payments will, however, be made in time to arrive by the first of each month.

Part 1
